Involvement in the Tanzquartier Wien

OCT. / NOV. 2011

Alongside an international performance programme, the Tanzquartier Wien offers everyone interested an individually customised outreach programme: movement-practice workshops, the Theory and Media Centre with stocks of magazines, books and DVDs, guided tours and visits to rehearsals, introductions and artists' discussions give an insight into the artistic workings of the house. But what does the work look like from »the inside«? We asked various areas of the Tanzquartier Wien:

For me it is a curious time leap between ›now‹ and ›distant‹, the moment and the future: I am just leaving the overheated rehearsal studio with the last details of tomorrow's première – is really everything thought of, discussed, everyone in the house informed? A phone call follows – guest performance preparations for December 2012 need to be discussed. To the question »How many spectators are we expecting?« I ask myself, "Will it snow?" – In the daily affairs of the Tanzquartier Wien everything squeezes very close together; that makes it confusing – and exciting! (Arne Forke, production manager)
